THE COMPROMISMAN AGAIN AT WORK.—The New York Journal of Commerce, a paper devoted to the Constance of rough-faced paper, has suggested a notable plan for staving off the Kansas question for the present, and for avoiding any immediate commitment of the Democracy on the final question of freedom or slavery in that great territory. It is for the Democracy to send neither Whitfield nor Reeder as delegates from Kansas, but to send them both back to the people for a new election. This plan, we should judge, might be very agreeable to President Pierce—as throwing the test question beyond the Presidential election, and permitting him to be represented by his bottle holder in the coming campaign, as really in favor of making Kansas a free State. The difficulty, however, is that the ultra Southern men, whose support he cannot dispense with, will agree to no such arrangement. They will demand the recognition of the pro-slavery Legislature of Kansas, and the consequent admission of Whitfield as the delegate regularly chosen under its authority. Sending both claimants back, would be a direct repudiation of that Legislature—so much so as the admission of Reeder would be—and this would of course never be agreed to by the Atchison and Stringfellow democracy of the South. The class of the democracy is powerful enough to control the votes of many of the Southern States, and could not safely be thus flouted. The position which them fellows occupy, relative to the administration, might happily be likened to that which the ultra Liberals held towards the democratic party in Maine. They have the balance of power, i. e. of votes, in their own hands, and will either rule or ruin the party, just as their demands are acceded to or denied. The Liberals have been fighting for free rum, and will have it; the Southern bullies of slavery started with the determination to fix that institution upon Kansas, and they demand the immediate support of Pierce to that project, or they will upset his administration, as they have already almost end.

In regard to the proposition for demanding the election of delegates, if seriously projected, as we think it may be, we hope every true anti-Nebraska man will set his face against it, and insist that the question of freedom or slavery in Kansas shall be fairly met before the Presidential election, and the dough-faces compelled to face the music. If Gov. Reeder is rejected as delegate, and sent back to his constituents, the Free State Constitution for Kansas goes back with him, of course; and if it is made to depend upon a new Convention, there is no security that the Missourians will not again control the ballot-boxes as they did in the election of the Legislature.

The New York Herald's Washington correspondent says "there is a plan on foot for a remarkable fusion between the 'National' K. N's. in Congress and the Democracy, to divide the offices in the House, and the other plunder, between them." O, the virtuous democracy, which has been so horrified in view of the narrow bigotry and intolerance of the 'dark lantern' party. Has it come to this,—that democracy will even stoop to a fusion with such a party, for the sake of the loaves and fishes? What do the Democrat and the Journal think of fusion generally, and of fusion with Know Nothingism, in particular?

The American Tract Society held its monthly meeting in New York on Monday last. The receipts for the month were $32,241, and for the period since April 1, $186,334, including $71,441 in donations. Grants during the month 10,154,462 pages, and for seven months 34,163,422 pages. The amount due on notes for paper $25,810. The society never more urgently at the present needed the efficient support of its friends and patrons.

The report current in this city Saturday, that the bills of the Orono Bank were not received at the Suffolk Bank, Boston, is contradicted by authority of a despatch from Hon. I. Washburn, Jr., who is now in that city.

Capt. Callender, the Commandant at the U. S. Arsenal at Augusta, has been ordered to Benicia, Cal.

MIRRORS AND PICTURE FRAMES.—Messrs. Davis & Downing have opened a sales-room for their wares on Union street, just below the Bangor House. They furnish handsome frames, in every variety, at wholesale and retail. Good pictures, well framed, are among the best of ornaments.

RACHEL.—The New York Tribune, in noticing the departure of Rachel, estimates that her performances for twenty-nine nights averaged $3000 each. Her portion is $1200 per night, amounting in all to $34,800, and M. Fox, the manager, $23,200.

Of the remaining $29,000 appropriated to expenses, a considerable portion is doubtless diverted among the family. This estimate does not include the profits of the Boston season, where nine performances were given with the same average results as in New York. Should these, and making a generous deduction for incidental expenses, M'lle Rachel may be safely supposed to have lodged in bank, as the result of the enterprise thus far, a sum exceeding $60,000 in less than two months. This we gather, from a pretty accurate knowledge of M'lle Rachel's receipts at the capitals of Europe, to be far away the largest amount she has ever received for a similar number of nights' performances; confirming the fact which the experience of every really great artist who has visited the country attests, that in no other is genius so highly appreciated or magnificently rewarded.

Rachel opened in Philadelphia Monday night, then goes to Baltimore, Washington, Charleston, Havana and New Orleans, where she is to be at the commencement of February—to return to New York in the Spring.

The Drunkard's Wife.

"I can hear a scorpion's sting, tread fields of fire, in search of cold eternal ice,
But I shrink aloft through tracks of endless void,
But cannot live in shame."—Joanna Baillie.

"Let not my child be a girl, for very sad is the life of a woman."—The Prairie.

No person who has not been a drunkard's wife, can possibly understand the intense suffering of her every life. Under favorable circumstances, woman has a large share of endearing cares and anxieties, and often of overwhelming sorrows; but when she is compelled to stand beside these heaving waves and has no one in whom she can safely trust, she feels an agony indeed, which has never been described. It is always an solemn and impressive scene when parents give up a loved daughter to another. It must be a fearful struggle of soul when they are called to give her up to one of those steady habits they hear serious doubts. She leaves the home of her childhood and youth, with all the uncertainties of human life before her, and if the present circumstances are ever so favorable, there is nevertheless, deep emotions of soul.

Now, reader, imagine you stand in a drunkard's flat, with all the scenery of drunkenness around you. You behold the ruins—the wreck of what, was once a lovely and an interesting girl, fondly cherished and ardently loved in her father's family circle. But who changed the scene? No power of human kindness can bring back that beauty and innocence and happiness which she once enjoyed. A terrible storm has passed over her soul, blasting every fair flower of her youth; and instead of finding a protector and friend in his journey, she is a slave to his appetites and passions. Talk of the ruins of the battle field, where thousands fell amid fearful conflicts. They are not to be compared with the ruins on the field of drunkenness, where not only property and bodies are destroyed, but immortal minds and all the glories that pertain thereto. Look at the field of death! It may be saturated with human blood and thickly covered with human bones. That blood and those bones will fertilize the earth, and cause the green grass and fair flowers to spring up and wave in beauty there.

Upon the scene the queen of night and the stage of God will shed their soft light, presenting a scene of loveliness that might invite the gaze of angels. There lies the king of day with pure his bright rays, and the summer bird will sing as sweetly as ever before; and there will be heard the sunny baby of the joyous child, with the smile on beauty's cheek; and there will be heard the sunless of the gifted poet, and the eloquent orator, commemorating the brave acts of those who fought and died and bled. But who will rise to reappear the former moral beauty and loveliness, in that heart that has been scathed by this fearful fire of intoxication? Who shall remove this deep curse that has rested upon the pure of that wife and mother? Through all this living death she has been true to her humanity and her obligations.

"Thou shinest nobly,
When hearts of sterner stuff shall sink;
And o'er thy fall, if it be so decreed,
Good men will mourn, and brave men will shed tears."

Why should woman suffer? What has she done? Why is the rumseller permitted to hold this curse-inflicting power over her? Why is her son, or brother, or father, or husband thus made a deep curse to her, by the prevalence of this monster sin? Why do men who profess to respect and love her, look on with comparative indifference, while this ocean of fire rolls in burning waves over her soul? If there was anything like a proper moral sense in our communities there would be an uprising of the people that would make the miniature infernal world of drunkenness tremble to its foundation.

FROM MEXICO.—New Orleans papers contain advices from Vera Cruz to the 8th:

Various clubs have been formed in Mexico, having for their object to carry out the liberal ideas advanced by General Vidaurri, who seems at present to be the idol of all Mexico.

The papers contain a lengthy document, which he has addressed to Secretary Marcy, through the Mexican Minister at Washington, complaining of the filibustering invasion of Mexico lately, across the Rio Grande. He observes that the pretended object of the invasion could not justify it, even if the allegations were true; while the fact, he says, is, that Mexico suffers severely from the Indians, against whom the United States are bound by treaty to protect her. He says that he has caused an estimate of the damages sustained to be made, in order that the Government (the Government of the undersigned) may claim indemnity in the usual diplomatic course.

THE BANKS.—Some apprehension has been excited within a day or two by rumors respecting some of our Maine banks, but there appears no sufficient ground for them, whatever. The only foundation is in the following paragraph from the Boston Journal of Friday:

The Granite Bank has promptly redeemed every demand made upon it, and will continue to do so. The bills are paid in specie on presentation. The deposits have been reduced to about $100,000, and the circulation is coming in rapidly. Should it be deemed best to wind up the affairs of the Bank, it is confidently believed by those who have given its accounts a thorough investigation, that but little if any loss can accrue to stockholders. An amount sufficient to redeem every liability of the Bank matures or loans previous to January 1st.

We understand that bills of the Orono Bank, Searsport Bank, Ellsworth Bank, of Maine, and Derby Line Bank, of Vermont, were refused yesterday by the Grocers, where they have hitherto been redeemed as fast as presented from the Suffolk. This will of course involve their refusal by the Suffolk to-morrow. It should be understood, however, that this is in consequence of an accidental over-draft on the Grocers' which, under other circumstances, would have protected them, and does not affect the safety of the bills mentioned. The result will be probably a delay of two or three days in the redemption of the bills here, until the Banks have time to remit funds for their protection.

THE MISSING BOAT SAVED.—The missing boat of the ship Cleopatra (sunk at sea on the passage from Callao,) containing the mate and eighteen of the crew, arrived at Rio Janeiro in the Peruvian barque Villa de Pisco, which picked them up on the 5th ult., about twenty miles off Cape Frio, and arrived at Rio Janeiro on or prior to the 9th.

THE N. Y. NATIONAL CONVENTION called by the bolters from the Philadelphia platform, met in the last, met on the 21st at Cincinnati. Only forty three delegates were present, from the States of Ohio, Illinois, Vermont, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Michigan. Thos. B. Ford of Ohio presided. He advised the convention to make no sectional issues, but endeavor to get the whole American party on a national platform. J. W. Dawson of Indiana, offered a resolution proposing to expunge the 12th section of the Philadelphia platform and substitute in its stead that slavery is not national, but a sectional issue, and must be settled as such by the States. Mr. Goodell of Penn. offered a resolution, recommending delegates of States represented here, to advocate, in place of 12th section, the resolution offered the Philadelphia Grand Council, by Kenneth Rayner, of North Carolina, excluding slavery altogether from the platform. Gov. Johnson of Pa. and Mr. Spooner, of Ohio also offered resolutions to get rid of the slavery issue. Mr. Moody, of Indiana, offered a resolution specifically repudiating the abolition of all rituals, test oaths and allowing each State Council to regulate its own matters, without regard to the National Council. Laid on the table. Mr. C. Hinsdale, of Michigan, offered a resolution ignoring the 12th section altogether, and declaring that it was not proper for the American party to trouble itself about sectional issues. There was some debate on this proposition, when the convention adjourned for the day.

SUDDEN DEATH.—A correspondent at Steuben, Me., informs us that Edwin Jack, a lad fifteen years of age, died very suddenly on the 16th inst., of hemorrhage of the lungs. He was a passenger in the White Mountain stage on his return from Denmark, Me., where he had been for the benefit of his health, to his home in Portland. He was attacked with bleeding in the stage, and expired in the arms of his uncle about five minutes after he was removed. Deceased was the eldest son of Mr. Edwin B. Jack of Portland.

Steamer Daniel Webster arrived at Frankfort Thursday and left on Friday morning on her last trip. The management of this steamer has given unexceptionable satisfaction during the past season, and it could not be otherwise under Capt. Hinckley, Mr. Cushing and the other officers. Not the least accident has occurred to her during the season, and but one trip, we believe, has been lost on account of storm, and all her trips have been very regular.—Journal.

A HARD HIT.—Lord Colburn, a British lord, was in the habit of saying, that "corporate bodies would hear being hit rather hard;" and in speaking of one composed of clergymen, a dean and chapter, he said to the present earl of Aldermarle—"A dean and chapter should be composed of the best men that ever lived; they shall be unexceptionable in their individual characters, but in their collective capacity they should devide a murder among them."

BOSTON HARBOR.—The noble horse, raised by Capt. F. Perley of Winthrop, and formerly owned by Hiram Reed of this city, has been purchased by Jas. D. & Wm. Judd of Richmond, Jefferson Co., Ohio. The horse took the 2d premium at the Springfield Horse Show in 1853.—Augusta Intelligencer.

DISASTER.—Schooner Abaco in going down river in a tow of sixteen vessels on the 22d, struck on Buck's ledge, where she subsequently filled. She was lumber laden. She has been got off and taken in to Searsport. She is owned by Isaac Carver and others. It is said she filled by her cabin windows upon the side of the tide as she lay pitched down.—Journal.

MAYORALTY OF BOSTON.—On Wednesday evening, at a union meeting of Whigs, Democrats and Republicans, Alexander H. Rice was nominated for Mayor of Boston. The election takes place next month. Mr. Rice is or was of the firm of Watkins, Carter & Co.

The Widow Bedott Writes to Her Daughter, Mrs. Jupiter Smith.

From the "Widow Bedott Papers" shortly to be published by J. C. Derby.

DEAR MALINDY:—I now take my pen in hand to tell you that I rather guess you'll be considerably astonished when you read what I set down to write. I've got some news to tell, that you can't guess if you try till next never, so you may as well give it up first as last, soon as you begin. And you ain't to set on a word about it only to Jupiter and Keziah Selloy. Come to think, I don't care if you tell Sam Pendergrass's wife, bein' as how she's a particular friend o' mine.

But don't you open yer head about it to no other human critter—for I want to surprise the Wiggletown folks, and make them open their eyes a leetle. Come to consaddier, I guess you'd better not tell Miss Pendergrass, for I'm afeard she can't keep it to herself. She might blurt out to the Kempsters and they'd tell the Crosbys, and the Crosbys they'd carry it to Major Cook's wife, and she'd be sure to tell old Dawson's wife (the widder Jinkins that was—she 'cause Poll Bingham,) and she's the very identical person I want to keep it from till it bursts upon her like a thunderclap. I guess she'll let her know! I can hold my head as high as any critter, for who did she git but a decrepid old thing head that she wouldent a had if she could a got any body else. I guess on the hull you hadent better say nothin about it to Mief's wife, for then she'll tell her folks, and they'll all be privy to it all round. If you dew tell her you make her promise she won't hint a single word about it to her step-mother—she was Kaster Winkle—nor to nobody else. She must all keep it a profound secret till I come. I mention happens to prevent, we shall be in Wiggletown next week, a Saturday, on our bloo[d] tecker. A Sunday mornin we calkilate to go to meetin along o's you and Jupiter and in the afternoon we shall send the Baptist meetin. I tell ye won't there be some stirrin in Wiggleton that day. I guess they'll find out I'm as goodas copy on 'em if not a leetle better. Isbam's here on one o' the things they've ever seen me wear. My figger is to be entirely new. Xer Uncle Mosshire has made me a present of a handsome merino dress, and yes Aunt Maguire has given me a new brown velvet bunnet, and yer Cousin Jefferson has presented me an elegant plaid shawl, and I calkilate to come you in 'em all at Wiggletown.

P. S. Give my love to Jupiter and tell him to be sure and let me hear that the [illegible] to you calkilate to come to Jubiter—for some reason or other, I've got an awful notion that he's taint to be. Yer uppie and downie.

P. P. S. Yer cousin Jeff Bedott's gone and got married to Sally Ann Pettibone, and has come things I could tell you nor when I see you, but nigh-hand worth. P. S. Her cousin Jeff axed mission to read this letter, and he agree I hain told you who I am gwine to be nor when the weddin' is to be nor [illegible] to be wondered at that I forgot, for a numerous number of things to tell. My future companion is the Rabbi, this place—by the name of Elder Snuffles was a very gifted man I tho to hear him. Well, I liked him wo he's a powerful speakker and his pra[illegible] ly interestin. So I goes to hear him o' times. He observed me and was pleased with me—but during all th crease in such a sensashun in his feeli knowed but what he had a wife. I feel when I found out he was a wi was artfully illustrated and Mr[illegible] scarce as possible. But he followed persevered, till at last I consented to him. Its melancholy to be alone in and then ministers dont grow on every bush. The weddin is to take place next Wednesday evenin at yer uncle's. Elder Yawborn, from Slabtown, is to reform the ceremony and preach it Elder Snuffleses place the next Sabbath when we're gone.

The elder lives in a gamble staff yeller house. I mean to make him put wings to it and make it look rather more fashionable. It stands on a dependin elervation that slants down to the canawl on one side, and not fur behind it is a mountain grove. He have not actually but a little highly mighty gal that they brought up. I tell ye. If I dont make her stan round when I get there, I'm mistaken. We shall start for Wiggletown a Thursday, in the stage—and git there likewise, Saturday evenin'. Now Melissa Smith remember you are to keep it a profound secret. I don't want nobody in Wiggletown to know a word about it till they see us come a walkin into meetin'. If you ansest this afore we come direct to the Reverend Mrs. Snuffles. Your affectionate mar, P. P. BEDOTT.

(Till next Week.)

SCENE IN COURT.—Yesterday, Constable Miller went with a search warrant for some stolen goods. After some examination they were found in the possession of a bouncing servant girl. The property consisted mostly of articles of dress, among which was a fine-worked collar. When the officer endeavored to get in his hands, but the girl put it in her mouth and shut down on it. The constable determined not to be foiled in this way, run his finger into the girl's mouth in order to pull out the collar, when she opened, and taking his finger between her teeth, crushed it almost to jelly. The officer not liking that trap, jerked out his finger, and the girl swallowed the collar. Thus ended the search, as Mr. Miller concluded he collar was then beyond his jurisdiction.—Troy Times Express.

The weather came off cold again on Saturday morning with a sharp north-west wind, and on Saturday night the river closed over, it is thought for the season. There are twenty-four vessels at this port, and between here and the Narrows—a number of them with cargoes on board.

The Kennebec closed over at Hallowell on Thursday night.

SENATORS.—The Portland Advertiser states that the Governor and Council have been in session for a week past, examining the returns of votes for Senators, &c. We learn, unofficially, that there are eleven vacancies in that body instead of five, as was stated soon after the election. The vacancies are as follows: Aroostook one; Franklin one; Lincoln one; (S. W. Farley); Penobscot three; Piscataquis one; Waldo one, (S. S. Reagan); Washington two; York one, (Alexander Plaisted).

Dr. Beale, the Philadelphia dentist who was imprisoned for making an improper use of a form, has been pardoned by the Governor of Pennsylvania, and set at liberty.

Crystalotype Portraits.

DAGUERREOTYPES can be accurately copied by the new Photographic process enlarged to any required size, and beautifully colored in Oil Water, or Pastel. Portraits also obtained from the life by this process, requiring no longer sitting than for a common daguerreotype, thus avoiding the serious inconvenience and fatigue of long sittings. Glass daguerreotypes, a new article of unsurpassed richness and durability, are now, for the first time in Bangor, offered to the public. Their great brilliancy and permanency renders them peculiarly suitable for Pins, Rings, &c. The Public are invited to call and examine specimens at HARDY'S Portrait Gallery, near Main-street, a short distance below the Bangor House.

The Kansas Convention.

Chicago, Nov 24

In the Kansas Constitutional Convention on the 15th inst the following Schedule passed on the 15th inst: That this constitution shall be submitted to the people for their adoption or rejection on the 15th day of Dec. If rejected, then on the 1st Tuesday in March, for the election of State officers, members of the Assembly and members of Congress. That the 1st Tuesday in January shall be the day for the first general session of the legislature. That the Governor shall secure the enforcement of the 6th section of the bill of rights before the 4th of July next.

Southern Legislature.

New York, Nov 24

A bill has been introduced into the Legislature of Georgia, proposing to compensate for the benefit of the owners of fugitive slaves, the debts due by the citizens of Georgia to citizens of the state to which slaves may have escaped, if the authorities of that State refuse to deliver up the slaves upon claims of their rightful owners

Supposed Murder of a Sea Captain and Mate.

The schr Endora from this port, bound east, has been anchored for the last four or five days between this city and Hart Island, above Hurl Gate. Last night she was discovered to be sunk, and the cook, a negro, who came on shore from her, on being questioned, could only state that the captain and mate had left the vessel previously. This story being doubted, he was detained. His clothes were marked with blood. In his pocket were three pocket-books containing $70 or $80. It is supposed that he murdered the Capt and mate for the purpose of robbery, and then scuttled the vessel. The schr lies in about 6 or 7 feet of water at low tide.

Various Matters.

The steamship Northern Light for San Juan, Nicaragua, left this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with a large number of passengers bound to California.

The body of Edward Neagle, late proprietor of the Kings Co Hotel, missing since the 13th inst, was found in the water yesterday, near Greenwood this forenoon. The body is much disfigured. On his person was found his gold watch, which stopped at quarter past 2 o'clock, 21 shillings in change, and some papers. It is said that some of the papers indicate that his death was by his own act.

Washington, Nov. 23.

The departure of the next mail steamer for California will be delayed until the 7th of Dec in order to enable it to take out the President's message, if the House should be organized by that time.

Baltimore, Nov. 24

The Supreme Court of Virginia has decided the injunction suit of Wheeling against Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in favor of the latter on all the points mooted. They can now make the connection at Benwood, with the Central Ohio road.

Capt. White, charged with casting away the ship Jos Chesten, was acquitted this afternoon by the Jury without leaving their seats.

St Louis, Nov 22

The committee appointed by the citizens to report on the Railroad disaster at the Gasconade Bridge, have reported that the disaster was caused by the high rate of speed at which the train was going. A minority report ascribes it to the total inability of the bridge to bear even its own weight.

Buffalo, Nov 24

Severe gale here yesterday. Schooner Covenant was wrecked Wednesday, off Morgetts, Canada side Lake Erie. Cargo wheat, and vessel total loss.

Schooner Illinois, hence for Detroit, is ashore near Grassdee river full of water.

THE MISSING MANUSCRIPT. Mr Kilbourn of Boston, who disappeared on Wednesday, has not yet been heard from. It is thought that instead of committing suicide, he skipped aboard the steamship Asia which sailed on that day for Europe. There is said to be $75,000 of his paper in the Grocer's Bank, of Boston—simply protected, however, by the signature of Francis, Wells & Co.

Supper Drink. A man named Wm Bailey, died suddenly at McCarty's boarding house on Tuesday morning. Coroner Kimball held an inquest on the body, and the jury returned a verdict of died by the excessive use of intoxicating liquors. [Portland Adv.
